

Stock pricing audit: Maison Rétro Vintage (fictional shop)

40 items supplied by the shop (brand, model, size, condition). Per item: BUY / WATCH / SKIP, the maximum price to pay, and the typical asking range on the Vinted markets we cover. Items we cannot price say so.

24/40 items with a real verdict	2 BUY	22 WATCH	0 SKIP	16 not enough data
------------------------------------	----------	-------------	-----------	-----------------------

What to push

- Adidas Samba: pay up to EUR 21, typical ask EUR 30-40
- Patagonia Synchilla snap-t: pay up to EUR 26, typical ask EUR 35-45

BUY means the max price leaves room against the typical ask and the model moves. Confidence is MEDIUM, never certain.

Buy only at or below the max price

- Stone Island Soft shell jacket: max EUR 112 (ask EUR 150-210)
- The North Face Mountain Light jacket: max EUR 78 (ask EUR 80-149)
- Carhartt Detroit jacket: max EUR 68 (ask EUR 58-125)
- Carhartt WIP OG Chore coat: max EUR 66 (ask EUR 64-121)
- Carhartt Active jacket: max EUR 64 (ask EUR 56-120)

22 items are WATCH: fine at the right price, no strong signal either way.

Where the room is thin

- Max price is EUR 15 or less on: Levi's 505 jeans (max EUR 15), Nike Air Force 1 (max EUR 14), Ralph Lauren Polo shirt (max EUR 13), Lacoste Polo shirt (max EUR 7), Champion Reverse Weave hoodie (max EUR 12). If your cost is above it, reprice, bundle, or skip the next lot.

No item got SKIP in this list. 16 items have no verdict: nothing is guessed for them (see page 4).

Read this first

- This is a real run on our live data for 40 typical vintage and streetwear items. The shop and its list are fictional.
- Prices are what listings ask on Vinted today, plus when listings leave the shelf. They are not confirmed sale prices.
- Markets covered today: Vinted France, Germany, Spain, Italy and Portugal. Brands and models outside our tracked set get "not enough data", never a guess.

FR/DE/ES/IT/PT columns: median asking price (EUR) of live listings in that market; "-" = too few listings there to give a median. "Typical ask" is the 25th to 75th percentile across markets. Confidence LOW/MED reflects how much data stands behind the call.

How to read this, and what we could not price

24 of 40 items got a verdict. 16 did not. Where the data is too thin or the model is not in our tracked set, we say "not enough data" and give no number. Those 16 items: Carhartt Carpenter pants; Nike Tech Fleece hoodie; Nike Vintage swoosh sweatshirt; Adidas Vintage track pants; Ralph Lauren Cable knit sweater; Ralph Lauren Harrington jacket; Stone Island Crewneck sweatshirt; Tommy Hilfiger Crest logo sweatshirt; Dickies 874 work pants; Timberland 6 inch boots; Burberry Trench coat; Barbour Beaufort waxed jacket; Fila Vintage track jacket; Kappa Vintage track jacket; Umbro Vintage football shirt; Diesel Vintage jeans.

Method and limits

- We watch Vinted listings in 5 markets (FR, DE, ES, IT, PT) and when listings leave the shelf. "Typical ask" is what listings ask today, not a confirmed sale price.
- Max price to pay = the ceiling at which a flip to the typical ask still leaves a 30% margin before your own costs (shipping, fees, time). It is a ceiling, not a target.
- Verdicts are per model, not per garment: size and condition are not priced yet. Adjust the max price down for Fair condition or unusual sizes. 16 of 24 calls are LOW confidence; none is HIGH.
- Where our closest tracked match was a different brand or garment (3 items here), we discarded it instead of showing a wrong price.
- No profit is promised. Sourcing channel, shop costs and sell-through are yours to judge.

Your audit

Send 50-200 items (brand, model/type, size, condition). Within 48 hours you get this report with your own list, plus a one-page summary of what to push and what to drop. EUR 149 one-off; the first 3 shops get a pilot at EUR 49 in exchange for a short testimonial.
